"Tenderness and kindness are not signs of weakness and despair
but manifestations of strength and resolution."

Gibran

Amidst the curriculum of nursing school, our personal lives can easily be pushed aside. To two special people we were human beings, not "just student nurses." It is difficult to innumerate the instances in which you have helped us both as a group and as individuals. You counseled us in our most discouraging hours and backed us in our seemingly futile positions. You found interest in each of us as a student and friend, never lacking insight into our difficulties. There was never too little time to smile, to wave, to sympathize, to support, to say "come in anytime and talk." You cared and you believed in us and for that we thank you both.

Sincerely,
The Class of 73

Time,
Time,
Time,

See what's . . become of
me,

While
I looked around for my possibilities.

I was so hard to please.

Look around,
leaves are brown,
and the sky is
a hazy shade of winter.

Down by the riverside's
bound to be a better ride
than what you've got planned.

Hang on to your hopes my friend.

That's an easy thing to say,
but if your hopes should pass away

Simply pretend that you can build them again.

Look around,

It's the springtime of my life.

Seasons
change with the scenery;

weaving
time in a tapestry.

Won't you stop and remember me?

Maternity Nursing

Last year I talked about black humor and the impact of the Common Market on the European economy and threw clever little cocktail parties in our discerningly eclectic living room with the Spanish rug and the hand-carved Chinese chest and the lucite chairs and was occasionally hungered after by highly placed men in communications, but this year we have a nice baby and pablum drying on our Spanish rug, and I talk about nursing versus sterilization while the men in communications hunger elsewhere.

Last year I had a shampoo and set every week and slept on unbroken sleep beneath the Venetian chandelier of our discerningly eclectic bedroom, but this year we have a nice baby, and Gerber's strained bananas in my hair, and gleaming beneath the Venetian chandelier, a diaper pail, a portacrib, and him, a nice baby, drooling on our antique satin spread while I smile and say how nice, it is often said that motherhood is very maturing.

Do you remember days
not so very long ago
When the world was run by people twice your size
And the days were full of laughter, and nights were full of stars
And when you grew tired
you could close your eyes.

Psychiatry

Alone is frightened —
of the unknown within yourself, and the forces you may release
if you walk too close to the edge.

Alone is angry —
at the people who fail to see the fear beneath your smile, lest their little placebo worlds
be, jarred by recognition of another's pain.

Yet they say alone is stronger —
to confront life unaided is admirable, though you may die in the attempt.

Yes, alone is stronger —
until acting alone becomes irresponsibility for your actions.

Alone is a wall you reinforce hourly, all the while praying that someone will knock it down, so you never need to be alone again.

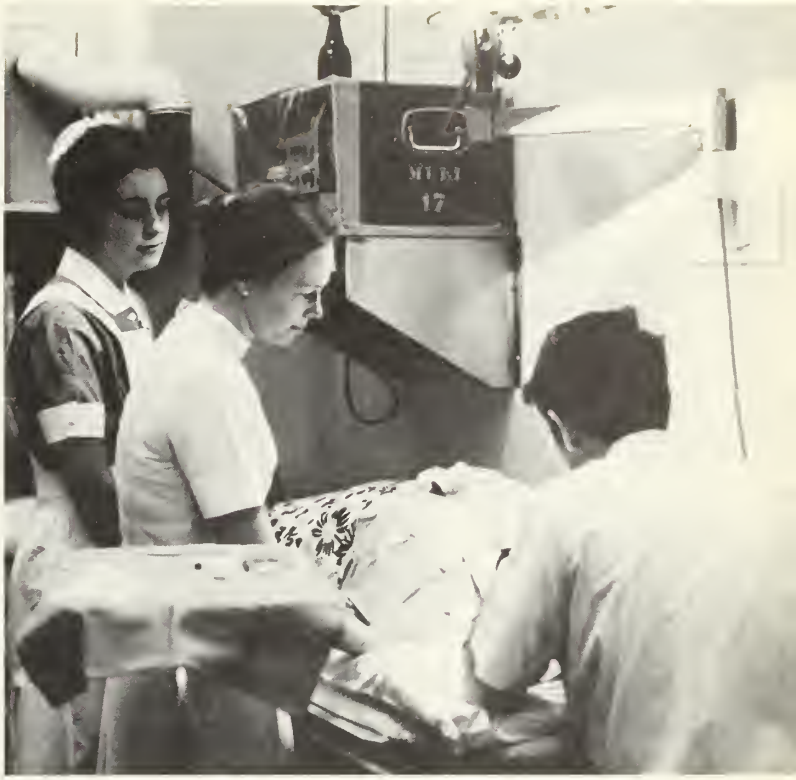
Ambulatory Nursing

Old friends
Sat in their clinic chairs
Like bookends.
A name called through the hall
Falls on the deaf ears
Of old friends.

Convalescent companions
The old men
Lost in their overcoats,
Waiting for a kind word.
The sounds of the hospital,
Whizzing about them
Settle like dust
On the shoulders
Of the old friends.

Can you imagine us
Years from today
Sharing a clinic bench quietly?
How terribly strange
To be seventy.
Old friends,
Memory brushes the same years
Silently sharing the same fear . . .

(Based on song by Simon and Garfunkel)



What is a Student Nurse?

Student nurses are one of the nicest things that can happen to a hospital. They come in all sizes, shapes, uniforms and caps. They show up everywhere — in wards, in utility rooms, at chart desks and in classrooms. Head nurses criticize them, doctors yell at them, residents overlook them, interns tolerate them, med students "snow" them (or try to), mothers worry about them, and patients love them.

An MGH student nurse likes days off, meal time, certain doctors, p.o. temps, giving emotional support, classes at 10 a.m., orders to d/c an I.V., and fathers in the delivery room. She doesn't care much for her first injection, alarm clocks, getting up in the dark, diabetic foot care, monitors, being called "the student", I.V. meds, handouts and rectal temps.

A student nurse is a rare person. No one else gets so much pleasure from adjusting a bed or fluffing a pillow. No one else gets such satisfaction from being passed on medications, comforting a dying patient's family and having a good cry in the utility room.

You can criticize her, but you cannot dishearten her. You can hurt her feelings, but you cannot make her quit. Her hours are long; her studies are difficult, but she is a hardworking young woman, full of determination, sensitivity and empathy.

THERE'S A WORLD

There's a world you're living in
No one else has your part
All God's children in the wind
Take it in and blow hard.

Look around you . . . Has it found you walking down the avenue?
See what it brings . . . Could be good things in the air for you.

We are leaving. We are gone.
Come with us to all alone.
Never worry. Never moan.
We will leave you all alone.

In the mountains, in the cities,
you can see the dream.
Look around you. Has it found you?
Is it what it seems?
